

GRADE 4 TITLES

	ISBN	TITLE
1	978-1-874830-27-6	Funny Stories
2	978-1-874830-28-3	Traditional Stories
3	978-1-874830-29-0	About Books
4	978-1-874830-31-3	Soccer Stories
5	978-1-874830-30-6	Water in Our World
6	978-1-874830-33-7	Folktales
7	978-1-874830-36-8	Everyday Stories
8	978-1-874830-32-0	What We Use
9	978-1-874830-34-4	School Stories
10	978-1-874830-35-1	Africa Tales 1
11	978-1-874830-38-2	Story Time
12	978-1-874830-37-5	Africa Tales 2

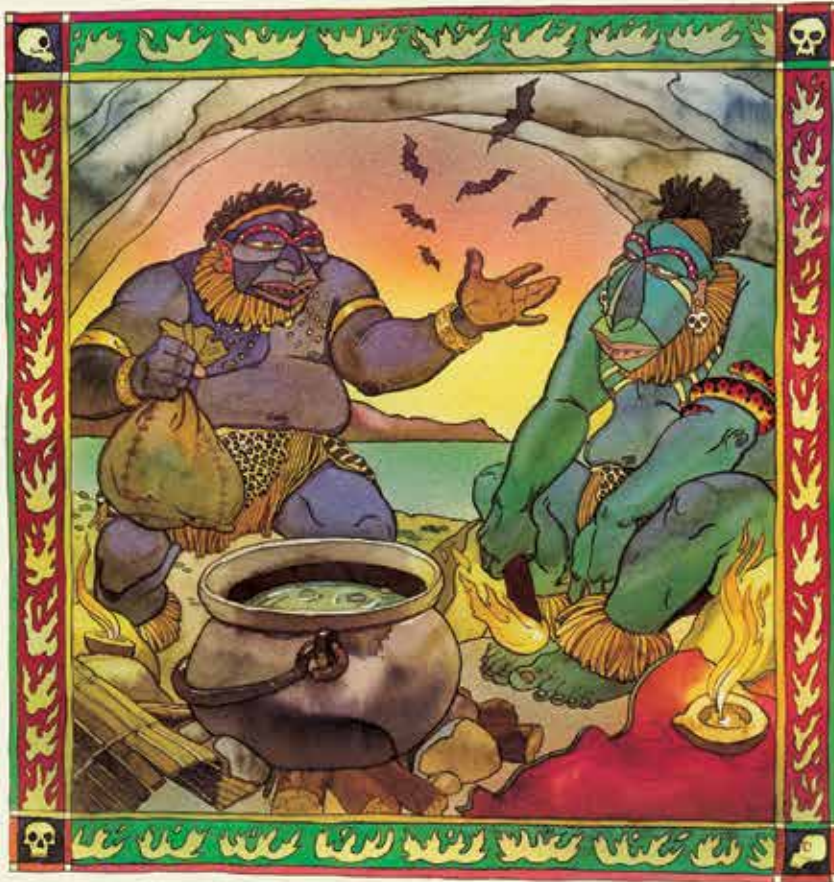

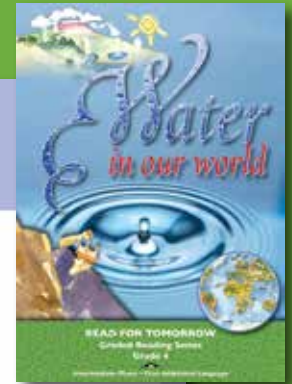

His brother Hunu was waiting.

‘Hunu, make a fire and boil some water,’
said Uroyo.

Soon the water began to boil.

Uroyo held the bag over the pot. The heavy rocks tumbled into the pot. The boiling water splashed Uroyo and Hunu.

Water in nature

Look at the picture.
 Can you see the snow at the top of the mountain?
 Can you see the river?

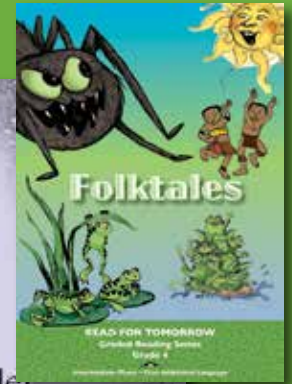

Can you see the dam with the boat?
 Can you see the sea with the ship?

Did you know?

The water from rain and snow flows into the river.
 The water from the river flows into the dam and then into the sea.

SAMPLE PAGES

‘Keep dancing!’ said Bongani.
‘It’s nearly morning.’

Although they were tired,
the children went on dancing
and the spider went on spinning.
The web was getting closer, closer.

Bongani and Zama
noticed that the sky was grey.
‘Keep dancing!’ said Bongani.
But the web was now so close
that there was nowhere to go.
Another moment and Tikky Tikky Spider would have them.
Oh no! Oh no!

They saw the green eyes above them.
They saw the pointed teeth.
Tikky Tikky Spider was going to eat them!
Oh no! Oh no!

